State Higher Vocational School in Tarnow (SHVS) (Państwowa Wyższa Szkoła Zawodowa w Tarnowie)

was called into being as the first state vocational school in Poland by the order of the Council of Ministers of the Republic of Poland in May 1998. It is a higher education institution of a new type, educating its students at the first level ("licentiate" / "bachelor", "engineer") or/and at the second level: "master". It's the oldest Polish public university college. Total number of students exceeds 4000. There are over 300 academic teachers employed, including around 100 professors and associate professors. It consists of 6 institutes and 19 departments:
